

Research on Experiences of Paying for Social Care

Would you like to take part in research about older people's experiences of paying for social care, to develop a new web resource for older people and their families?

Taking part in this study will involve talking to a researcher about your experiences of paying for social care, such as:

- How it came about
- How you found information
- How you made decisions
- Your thoughts and feelings
- Anything else you would like to tell us

We will publish the study findings on www.socialcaretalk.org, a new website that is a spin-off from the award-winning www.healthtalk.org. It will provide access to the experiences of others who have faced the same concerns. On the website, you will be able to read, hear or watch the accounts of people describing their experiences of social care.

Socialcaretalk, like Healthtalk, will be used to help support other people going through similar experiences, and help train social care workers and managers.

If you would like to take part, a researcher will arrange to interview you by video call. After the interview we will give you £20 to say thank you for your time.

For more information on taking part, please contact:

Lyndsay Lindley

Social Policy Research Unit, University of York, York, YO10 5DD

lyndsay.lindley@york.ac.uk 07552285966